

A large rectangular area in the center of the page is enclosed by a thick red border. This area contains a series of horizontal lines for writing. Each writing row consists of a solid black top line, a solid yellow middle line, and a solid black bottom line. There are 12 such rows, providing a structured space for text.